

©CIL 18137

WET WEATHER

by Hal E. Roach.

Mother-in-law was coming to visit - and daughter thinking to head her off sends a special delivery letter (with the dime for the special in the envelope). Hence, mother's unexpected arrival. It so happened that at this particular time the plumbers were practically wrecking the house and the newlyweds were sleeping in the garage. With mother's arrival (about midnight), the heavens opened and the floods descended. On account of the cramped quarters, friend husband had to sleep outside in automobile and during the storm the roof of the garage was carried away, the occupants drenched with the blinding rain and the automobile containing the husband is blown over a cliff. Like all comedy situations, these events are accompanied by scenes that are funny and almost impossible in real life. Friend husband finally gets his night's rest, curled up in the back seat of the automobile which is resting placidly at the foot of the cliff, while mother and daughter finish their appointment with Morpheus in the garage.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, 1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress